Workers struggled in the ice, fog and foam to rescue the injured, recover the dead and unsnarl traffic. At left a workman torches through tangled wreckage of a diesel truck frame. Firemen from all over the Valley responded to the emergency, which forced traffic onto side roads.

Two killed, 10 hurt in morning fog

LIVERMORE — A Stockton woman and an Altadena man were killed and 10 others injured yesterday morning when 23 cars and seven trucks slammed together in a dense fog on suddenly icy Interstate 580 west of Flynn Road in the Altamont Pass.

Alameda County Coroner's office reported the Stockton woman was identified as Gladys Franklin, 53, 373 W. Clayton Ave. A dentist was being called in last night to identify the Altadena man whose charred body was found in his Thunderbird car. The woman's body was found at the bottom of a cliff where she apparently had fallen in the dense fog while seeking help.

Earl Freis, 55, of Union City, was the most seriously injured. He was in critical condition yesterday in Valley Memorial Hospital with head injuries and a possible hip fracture.

All of the other injured live in Tracy. They include Randolph Benton, 62, in satisfactory condition with a scalp laceration and injured arm; Antone Phillips, 59, transferred to a Tracy hospital; Elizabeth Phillips, 57, treated and released; Ernest Nunes, 57, transferred to Tracy; Jim Hunter, 40, in satisfactory condition at Valley Memorial with a fractured hip; Lionel Garson, 55, in stable condition at Valley Memorial with head injuries; Arthur Sasser, 49, treated in emergency room and released; David Rebro, 34, of Manteca, treated for a fractured kneecap and transferred to another hospital; and a 29-year-old woman with minor cuts who was taken to Tracy Memorial.

The calls started coming into the California Highway Patrol office in San Leandro at 5 a.m. yesterday as the first smog occurred in pre-dawn darkness and fog. Apparently the heavy fog deposited dew frozen by the low temperatures at the pass which at that point is near the 1,000 foot level.

The last report of a collision occurred at 8:30 a.m. The first injured person, Freis, was brought to Valley Memorial at 7 a.m. in a police department cruiser.

Thirteen telephone poles were involved in the accidents, including some which burned after a fuel truck carrying diesel fuel overturned and ignited. It was not known whether this fire burned the Altadena man to death or if he was burned by the ignition of his own car's gas tank.

State Highway Department crews were sent to the accident scene to put sand on the ice. The road was closed in both directions for awhile and traffic was routed on the old Altamont Road. The accidents occurred in the westbound lanes of the freeway, but the destruction spilled over into the eastbound lanes.

Some eastbound trucks which could not maneuver to turn around and be rerouted had to wait until the highway patrol could clear a lane for them.

At 9 a.m. some of the destruction remained in a strange scene with patches of brilliant blue sky amid dense fog and gleaming patches of ice on the roadway. Traffic was moving at 30 miles an hour at that time and continued to move slowly far beyond the accident scene.

County planners OK area growth

Alameda County Bureau

HAYWARD — The four-year fight over land use in the Valley — and the fate of Harlan Geldermann's proposed "New Town" — hit yet another plateau yesterday when county planning commissioners voted 6-1 to allow full development of the Valley up to a 1995 population of 183,020.

The accepted plan calls for development of the Las Positas Valley, proposed site of Geldermann's "New Town," in addition to the 2 percent growth rate called for in Livermore's and Pleasanton's general plans.

Dublin, too, would be filled out, as well as Carl Nipper's "Rancho Sunol Estates" planned for the Pleasanton Ridge above Sunol.

Only planning commissioner Barbara Shockley voted against the plan.

The county planning department had recommended a much tamer amendment calling for development of only the two cities with a maximum 1995 Valley population of 142,000.

Shockley concurred, but said she wanted to form a committee to meet with the two cities to work out county growth questions. Her move was roundly denounced by fellow commissioners.

The final general plan amendment will be decided by county supervisors this spring. The planning commission acts only as an advisory group.

Moving overshadowed

Church needs fire help

PLEASANTON — Nearly 200 members of Presbyterian Community Church met Monday night to hear thorough documentation about whether or not to move their historic church to Mirador Drive, but the biggest news appeared to come from Fire Marshal Ted Klenk.

Whether the congregation moves the old church or not, it appears that $50,000 to $70,000 will have to be invested to make the church much safer in case of fire.

The congregation seemed to be visibly moved when Klenk told the parishioners that if a fire broke out in the church, it could be engulfed in flames three minutes later, reported George Helgeson.

The solution is either to build one hour fire walls on the inside and outside of the building or install a sprinkler system, Helgeson told The Times yesterday. Other improvements would have to be made, notably at least one more exit from the choir loft.

Most of the discussion centered around the two plans which the congregation will decide next Tuesday night. One plan, advanced by Howard Neely and other members of the building committee, claims that for $515,000 the church can be moved to the Mirador Drive site which the congregation already owns.

Originally the contractor's bid to move the old structure was $560,000, but Neely's group pared it to $515,000 by projecting volunteer labor to save costs.

Helgeson thinks the congregation should build a new structure on the Mirador Drive site and keep the century old church on the site at Second and Neal Street. He was charged by the congregation to learn from Hayward architect Morgan Howell how much new building space could be purchased for $500,000. Howell designed the education building which occupies part of the Mirador Drive site.

"Howard Neely and I agree on one thing," said Helgeson. "We want church members to please get out and vote Tuesday night."

Do something now

Message for downtown business

Development of a downtown business core in the face of shopping center competition was the theme of a Tuesday luncheon discussion in Pleasanton which brought together business leaders from Stockton, Lafayette and Pleasanton in a unique sharing of ideas.

"If you don't do something now, where will you be ten years from now?" was the warning sounded by Ed Coy, spokesman for several downtown groups in Stockton. Coy came to Pleasanton to "look over your situation" and he remained to speak to a luncheon gathering of the Chamber of Commerce. Joining that discussion were three business leaders from Lafayette, who voiced concern for the future of that attractive business hub.

Coy traced the used of new state legislation (AB 103) which allows property owners to vote themselves into an assessment district for the purpose of improving a business core, providing parking spaces and even advertising that area's business opportunities. Stockton created several such "improvement districts" in its core area through that mechanism, adding to the business license tax to raise several hundred thousand dollars each year.

Coy argues that the move was sound, was necessary, and has paid off for downtown Stockton. He also admits "it was never easy."

Pleasanton downtown merchants have been talking of such an association just for the purpose of financing Christmas decorations, a project

VALLEY NEWS BRIEFS

County's farm plea

Leshar News Bureau

Contra Costa County supervisors are asking the federal government for nearly $2 million to aid farmers suffering from drought-related damages and losses.

Supervisors drafted a letter to Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. Tuesday, asking Brown to contact Washington, D.C.

Funds being asked for include $1,138,800 for the cost of grain and hay, $765,000 for transporting feed, and $48,000 for transporting cattle.

County official said 270 livestock, grain and hay producers in the county are suffering from the drought. Land affected includes 172,000 acres of pasture.

The Alameda County Farm Bureau is looking at a similar action, and is expected to forward an emergency fund request to Sacramento.

Fed response due

Livermore will receive official word this week about federal funding for the First Street realignment and overpass, according to Congressman Pete Stark's staff which investigated delays in the notification process.

City Manager Bill Parness had been waiting since a press release from Stark's office Dec. 28 announced Livermore would receive $1.5 million from the Economic Development Administration under the Public Works Employment Act.

Pileup on bridge

More than 1,000 commuters heading to and from the Eastbay over the San Mateo Bridge were stranded for as long as three hours yesterday morning after a three vehicle collision blocked traffic in both directions on the four lane span.

A truck driven by Alan Simmons, 28, of Concord, struck a car driven by Lola Hansen, 37, of Union City from behind. The Hansen vehicle had run out of gas in an eastbound lane about a mile east of the bridge's highest point, the center span over the bay ship channel.

A second truck, driven by David Gomez, 30, of San Bruno, hit the two vehicles and the car became wedged between the two trucks. Car driver Hansen sustained back injuries and had to be extricated from the pulverized auto. The two truckers had minor injuries.

The low bridge turned into a pier as traffic backed up for miles. Car drivers with CB radios phoned in messages from stranded motorists telling bosses they would be late for work.

Park people needed

The Valley Community Services District is accepting applications for members to participate on the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Parks and Recreation.

This committee meets twice a month on the second and fourth Tuesdays.

Matters relating to the VCS District parks and recreation programs are considered. Recommendations are made to the board of directors.

Submissions may be sent to: General Manager, Valley Community Services District, 7051 Dublin Blvd., Dublin, Ca. prior to Feb. 11, 1977.

Hookup ban remains—'no progress'

OAKLAND — The current ban on additional sewer hookups, imposed Dec. 21 because local officials failed to secure a viable wastewater disposal plan, was continued yesterday after the Regional Water Quality Control Board again declared "no progress" on that project.

A public hearing to consider arguments on lifting the ban was begun yesterday for both the City of Livermore and Valley Community Services District.

No representatives of the two dischargers were present to speak on the ban.

Paul Tull, representing the Committee for Conservation, argued that wastewater should not be dumped into San Francisco Bay, but instead reclaimed and used for irrigation purposes. RWQCB members said they appreciated Tull's point of view, but were legally bound to concern themselves only with enforcement of federal water pollution standards.

Tull said that if Valley officials decide to build a disposal system without the vote of the people, a massive recall movement of those representatives would result. He charged "intimidation from this board" would be cited as one reason why the pipeline plan was pushed through.

Board members unanimously voted to continue public hearings on the hookup ban at their next meeting Feb. 15 at 9:30 a.m. in the Assembly Room, 1111 Jackson St. in Oakland.

The Zone 7 water management board will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight at 8 to consider continuing its recent interest in the disposal problem. A special meeting of the Zone 7 board last Friday resulted in an offer of $10,000 if the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Board (LAVWMA) would study all disposal alternatives a third time.

When considering all feasible alternatives, Zone 7 board members suggested energy conservation be given "prime consideration." In addition, they hinted that LAVWMA directors should not "look too hard at time constraints" imposed by state and federal officials to qualify for partial grant funding.

Zone 7 will meet tonight at 8 at the Del Valle Treatment Plant, 601 East Vallecitos Road in Livermore. The board will also consider the budget for fiscal year 1977-78 and proposed water conservation practices.

LAVWMA will hold a meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Livermore City Council Chambers, 39 South Livermore Ave. The board will discuss which disposal method is best suited to the Valley, and possibly sign a contract to begin design work.

Replace village—ABAG

PLEASANTON — Housing Authority commissioners will meet three potential developers of replacement housing for Komandorski Village tonight.

The panel, which will meet at 8 p.m. in the Kottlinger Place Community Hall at 240 Kottlinger Ave., also will hear an endorsement of replacement housing from the Association of Bay Area Governments.

ABAG wrote PHA encouraging the housing authority to consider upping the 150 proposed replacement units to 185. ABAG feels there is a need for at least 185 units. Until two years ago, Komandorski Village had approximately 185 units, but four buildings were demolished as a beginning step toward eliminating all the old units and now there are approximately 165 units.

The commissioners tonight also will consider allowing students to rent units at Komandorski Village. Parsons observed that one bedroom units go for $109 and two bedrooms for $122, including utilities.

Rental license fees lagging

LIVERMORE — A recent investigation in the city's finance department has revealed at least 300 "rental businesses" which are operating without business licenses. City Manager Bill Parness told the council Monday.

Parness also said steps are being taken to tighten the reins on businesses located outside the city which make regular deliveries to businesses here.

The city requires licenses for people who operate two or more residential rental units, according to Finance Director George Nolan.

Nolan said anyone renting commercial property to another person must have a license.

Penalty for non-compliance, said Nolan, is 10 per cent of the monthly fee, with a minimum $25 penalty.

He told The Times the large number of violations is probably due to ignorance of new provisions in the city's business ordinances. He also said some cases may involve businesses which are licensed under another name properly.

The investigation took place during the last three months of employment by purchasing agent Ed Garcia, who recently retired with 25 years of service to the city.

Nolan said he will be mailing notices and business license applications to possible violators this week.

"Many are not aware they need a license," he said.

The finance director told The Times his office sent questionnaires in November and December to many local business firms asking for names of suppliers who deliver to them from outside the city.

His office has received 32 replies out of more than 100 sent, but because the finance department is shortstaffed the questionnaires will not be processed until next month.

"This is an ongoing situation because the nature of the business community is always changing," said Nolan, who pointed out that businesses constantly get new suppliers, change ownership, start and close.

Asked about the criteria for licensing outside firms delivering here, Nolan admitted placement in the "outside business" license requirement depends on his interpretation, based on the "regularity and frequency" of the outside firm's deliveries here.

Concepts for downtown

that is in jeopardy starting with December of 1977. But the idea of using that same state mechanism to provide downtown parking, and even to sweep the sidewalks "is worth exploring," said chamber president Bill Hirst in announcing he will assign such a study to the Downtown Revitalization Committee.

Lafayette sent a trio of representatives to hear Coy's message, and to later share their own experiences on development of that residential center into one of the East Bay's more attractive commercial strips.

"We created an assessment district," explained Chuck Stuart of Lafayette "but that was just to gain rights of way and to control signs." No parking was provided through that district, a need which is now becoming "very critical" for Lafayette as that core area begins to attract shoppers from other areas.

Lafayette is making a study of other "downtown improvement districts" in adjacent communities, including Pleasanton's successful development of parking within one square block between St. Mary's and Division streets. That project now provides 82 parking spaces at a final cost of under $112,000 for the entire project, including land acquisition.

But, like Stockton and Lafayette, the Pleasanton project was "only accomplished after several false starts, and a great deal of work by a few dedicated people." And that, Coy told his audience, is the only way any such downtown venture is ever going to succeed. But, he adds, it is worth it. The alternative is to "give in to the modern shopping centers" which provide many of those same services as part of each store's lease.

State education trends forecast

ALAMO — "We've got a lot of attitudes to look at in the educational process, attitudes dealing with equal opportunities. They were formed over a long period of time and it'll take a long time to alter them."

Barbara Landers, a consultant for the state Department of Education, discussed in light-hearted - on - salty terms the changes that will be necessary in the months and years to come if Title IX is to work in the schools.

Ms. Landers addressed some 125 San Ramon Valley Unified School District teachers Tuesday at Monte Vista High School.

Title IX, a federal law, basically prescribes equal educational opportunities for all boys and girls. The "rub," if in fact there is one, comes when planning for athletic programs at the senior high school and college levels.

The Amador and Pleasanton school districts have stated the following, in part, in resolution form, on the subject of assignment and participation of pupils in educational programs, activities and services:

No pupil, except where authorized by law, shall be excluded from participation in, be denied benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any educational program, activity or services that have been organized, sponsored or supervised by the districts. This nondiscrimination policy shall also apply to assignment of pupils to specific schools, courses or class sections.

Ms. Landers dwelled heavily on "adjusting of attitudes" in her talk Tuesday.

The law, which is supported by several state laws, gives considerable attention to equalizing of athletic opportunities for girls— from provisions for girls or coed teams to coaching and monies allotted for supplies.

Ms. Landers tilted her verbal sword at stereotypes, noting that some boys like to participate in what is usually considered a "girls' activity" while some girls are interested in taking part in a traditionally male activity or sport.

"It will take a lot of getting used to," the heavy-set level - suit clad educator commented, "but you must remember we can't do everything in a day."

She noted later, however, that the law has built-in time lines.

"Look to the law as an opportunity," she challenged, "and not as a shackle."

Valley plans 'go green'

Supervisor Valerie Raymond is vehemently opposed to "New Town."

The planning commission decision, reached after four public hearings, 52 testimonials and 40 letters, is sure to raise the ire of conservationists and regional agencies.

The Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) policies call for municipal growth rather than new subdivisions. And the state's Regional Water Quality Control Board already has issued a cease and desist order banning new sewer connections in the Valley.

The proposed general plan amendment, the first major overhaul in a decade, exceeds the available treated water supply and would require expansion of Zone 7 or city facilities.

It also pushes past the available sewer treatment plant capacities, and far exceeds the "E-Zero" population limit of 131,000 set by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Leaping that limit means funding for utility expansion — particularly water and sewer treatment plants — would not come from state or federal coffers.

The commission's decision also would carve out 16,870 acres of state designated "prime" agricultural lands and potential vineyards, the heaviest loss of the three alternatives proposed by staff.

Livermore Mayor Helen Tirsell said she expected the commission's decision, but the vote "was worse than I thought. We hope to fare better before the board of supervisors."

She quickly conferred with SAVE initiative attorney Maurice Engel, telling him "it's time to get out your big gun."

But proponents of full development, most notably land owner from the Las Positas Valley, applauded the decision as they huddled in groups congratulating each other.

The decision breezed through the commission quickly after a 90-minute staff presentation.

Planning department officials will present yet another report Feb. 28 answering any "adverse impacts" in the plan with "overriding considerations."

The little dissent that surfaced came from commissioners Edward Enos and Shockley.

Enos said he favored the plan calling for county development in the Valley, but no growth in the cities. He said the cities would grow "naturally, through annexation."

Commissioner George Spiliotopoulos of Pleasanton said the major issue is the Valley's "holding capacity," and argued that any of the three alternatives provided a reduction from the current general plan's call for a minimum 294,000 people in 1995.

The six panelists in the majority agreed future improvements in control of pollutants — chiefly auto emissions — weakened arguments calling for a lower Valley population.

Study local planning

Leshner News Bureau
Contra Costa County supervisors have asked for a study on forming local planning commissions for unincorporated areas — specifically Danville and Orinda.

Supervisor Eric Hasseltine of Danville, with support of Supervisor Robert Schroder of Walnut Creek, asked for a report Tuesday on the area planning commission concept.

Supervisor James Kenny of Richmond said, "It's all right to study this ... but there are a lot of unincorporated areas that don't want to be cities, but want all the powers of a city."

The local planning commissions would handle issues pertaining to local areas now under control of the county Planning Commission.

The concept was rejected by supervisors several years ago because of the additional cost.

Supervisor Warren Boggess of Concord expanded the report to include a study of what jurisdiction cities have over planning matters in unincorporated areas in a city's sphere of influence.

Chabot instructor authors new book

Warren B. Hicks of Pleasanton, associate dean of instruction for learning resources at Chabot College, is the co-author of a new book, "Managing Multimedia Libraries."

The book, written in cooperation with Alma M. Tillin, lecturer in the school of information and library studies at the University of California, is published by R.R. Bowker Company of New York City.

This is the second book on which Hicks and Mrs. Tillin have collaborated. Their first, "Developing Multimedia Libraries," was published in 1970.

Hicks served as a consultant to the Commonwealth of Australia in the development of a series of new colleges in 1967. He joined the Chabot staff in 1963 after two years as supervisor of libraries for the Berkeley city schools.

He and his wife, Mina, live at 1672 Orchard Way in Pleasanton. They have two sons, Joel, 19, currently with the Air Force in Mississippi, and Darren, 13, an eighth grader at Harvest Park School.

Waste water film shown in Livermore

LIVERMORE — The use of waste water for irrigation will be the topic of a film presented when the American Taxpayers' Union meets 8:30 p.m. Thursday at the public library.

James Olsen, of the San Francisco office of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, will be available to answer questions.

Preceding the color film, an ATU 8 p.m. business meeting will include election of a nominating committee.

The public is invited to attend the movie.

"Although we have had several presentations in Livermore on this vital matter," said an ATU official, "the Army Corps of Engineers will present another view. Only by exposing ourselves to many alternatives can we assess our needs and make intelligent decisions about what is best for us at this time."

Efforts spurred for SRV busing

SAN RAMON — A group of citizens and officials from Alameda and Contra Costa County are starting to determine ways to provide a more accessible transportation system to residents of Dublin and San Ramon.

Monday night they explored needs and alternatives for solving the transportation problem. Phil Flores, a San Ramon resident, was instrumental in getting the group together.

Last week, Flores helped form a local committee on aging. He was elected chairman by other committee members. It will operate under the auspices of the Contra Costa County Office on Aging.

Flores said he thought it would be beneficial to the local committee on aging to meet with officers of area organizations and county representatives.

"I thought we needed to get some input from them and ask for their support," Flores said. "If all of us work together on this problem and others we can get things done."

The original intention of forming the local committee on aging was to find a way to get transportation for senior citizens in San Ramon and Dublin.

"But I've already learned we have to go beyond groups and the single problem of transportation," said Flores. "But transportation for seniors in this area is our prime consideration right now. We'll take this on then tackle other problems later."

Ray Ceder, BART representative, said his company had tried to route their shuttle buses through residential areas.

"Residents would not allow that kind of penetration," he said. "They did not want buses going down streets where children might be playing. They didn't even want bus stops put up near homes."

"From my viewpoint you need action between Pleasanton/Livermore and Dublin/San Ramon to get your proposed bus service started."

He indicated it was more difficult for unincorporated areas such as Dublin and San Ramon to provide a local bus system.

"Cities usually have more funds available for such projects," Ceder said. "Sitting within two counties also presents a problem."

He reminded the assembly that BART had surveyed needs, route availability and other pertinent factors prior to starting their shuttle bus service.

"Local service information was a missing element in one study," he said. "But local needs were surveyed when the Livermore BART extension study was made. Those reports are still available."

Ann Jolley of the Valley Community Services District (VCSD) board of directors said transportation was not a part of VCSD services.

"It could be added but it would take official action," she said. "I hope someone is successful in getting something going. It is a need."

Dorothy Walter, president of the San Ramon Women's Club, said it was her club's purpose to help in a situation like the proposed local bus system.

Georgia Jacka, representing the San Phil Flores.

Ramon Homeowners Association, said the SRHA received a lot of calls from people, especially senior citizens, about lack of local bus service.

"The San Ramon Homeowners Association would like to help you attain your goal," she said.

Paul Kilkenny, from the Contra Costa County Public Works Department, pointed out there were state, county and local funds available to support a local bus system.

According to Kilkenny, if an area qualifies for some of this money they may apply for it.

"In some cases under the Transportation Development Act, the county will provide money for a new bus service for two years," Kilkenny said. "After that, the local people must come up with their share which amounts to about one-third. That usually calls for a raise in taxes and that is nearly always turned down."

Jack Bloom, representing Metropolitan Transportation, said the need for a local bus service in the Dublin-San Ramon areas has been determined.

"To get it going you must first find out what type of service is needed," he said. "Then, who will it serve? Finally, what type of system do you need? Primarily, it seems you need an intra-city system. BART provides and inter-city system. These questions must be answered before we know what to do."

Eric Hasseltine was not able to attend. His representative, Linda Best, assured the group that Hasseltine had been concerned about the need for transportation before he was elected supervisor of the fifth district.

Flores said he would like to reconvene the same group after the local committee on aging considered what they had learned.

"We have learned a lot," he said. "Our committee will get together and decide our needs then contact you again. All of us want the same thing. It's a matter of coordinating it."

Death penalty debate slated on television

George Nicholson, formerly chief trial deputy in the Alameda County District Attorney's office and former Dublin resident, will debate Paul Halvonik, state public defender and ex-director of the American Civil Liberties Union on Channel 5 Jan. 26.

The debate will be shown on the program "Impact" and will deal with the effect of the death penalty. The program will be shown at 10 p.m.

Nicholson is presently executive director of the California District Attorneys Association in Sacramento.

Murray trustees okay plan for redistricting schools

Barring any mass or legal action by citizens in the district, the Murray School District will "implement Plan A" by next summer, turning Frederiksen School into a junior high school and revising attendance areas for Murray, Fallon and Cronin.

The unanimous action was taken Monday night by Murray School District board members.

Under a redistricting plan approved, Frederiksen K-6 students would walk or be bussed to Fallon School starting in September.

The Fallon attendance area would be bounded by Firethorn Way and Brighton Drive to Lucania, the south side of Brighton, and Langmuir Lane on the north, the railroad tracks on the east, the north side of Amador Valley Boulevard on the south, and Highway 680 on the west.

Plan A calls for seventh and eighth graders from the Dublin, Fallon, Murray and Nielsen attendance areas to attend Frederiksen, and those from Cronin, Donlon and Lydixsen to attend Wells on Penn Drive.

By the estimates worked up by Wally Moreskine, acting assistant superintendent and director of auxiliary services, Fallon's enrollment next year would skyrocket to 527 from its present 300, approximately.

Cronin's estimated attendance would be 386 and Murray 387. Both would serve K-6 enrollments.

In other business Monday night, the independent study program at Wells was detailed, trustees approved an application for Title IV-B, library and counseling program funds, and a resolution authorizing going to bid for cafeteria equipment was enacted.

'Teach puppies with love'

Pup raised by 4-H girl for the blind

By Lucy Hobgood-Brown

Prudence is full of zest and her eyes sparkle with mischief. She carries herself with the air of a star, knowing full well that her family tree is impeccable. Her manners have yet to match, however, admits owner Marie Clark with an exasperated "Stop that, Prudence!"

The sassy three-month-old golden retriever "is looking for trouble all the time," says Marie, "but she's probably the smartest dog we've had." The Clarks are old hands at training puppies — and unusually bright ones, at that. Marie, a six year veteran of 4-H, has taken three puppies from Guide Dogs for the Blind and helped "socialize" them before sending them back to the San Rafael headquarters. Her job has been to provide the affection and family atmosphere which makes for a sociable and stable animal.

The puppies, which have been bred from AKC-registered breeding stock, are either golden retriever, Labrador retriever or German shepherd. These breeds have proved to be the most practical, because of their all-weather coats (which are adaptable to both cold and hot climates), their medium sizes and their love for work.

Before Marie could get Prudence, she had to wait for a new litter (born at the school) to undergo a five-week testing period, when each dog was graded on its reaction to sudden noise, strange surfaces underfoot, intelligence and willingness to work. Other tests include weighing and measuring the pups and checking their weekly programs in "fetch" and "come" commands.

When the puppies have successfully completed their testing period, they are farmed out to 4-H members like Marie for a year to 14 months. This socialization is vital in the dog's life, as it has been proven that kennel-raised dogs do not make good guides. Fourteen-year-old Marie attends weekly obedience classes with her dog and takes Prudence on family outings.

Helping raise guide dogs for the blind has become a family project. Mrs. Clark, who declares that she "never used to like dogs," is director of the Vintage Hills (Pleasanton) program. The entire family pitches in to break Prudence's habits of chewing on the furniture and enthusiastically licking visitors. "We train her with love," says Marie. "The discipline is in the tone of your voice, because the school doesn't want us to hit the dogs."

With vet and food costs tax-deductible, the Clarks find it hard to understand why 4-H membership is dropping — which also means the San Rafael school has many puppies who need homes. "They're always fun to have around," laughs Marie as she tickles Prudence.

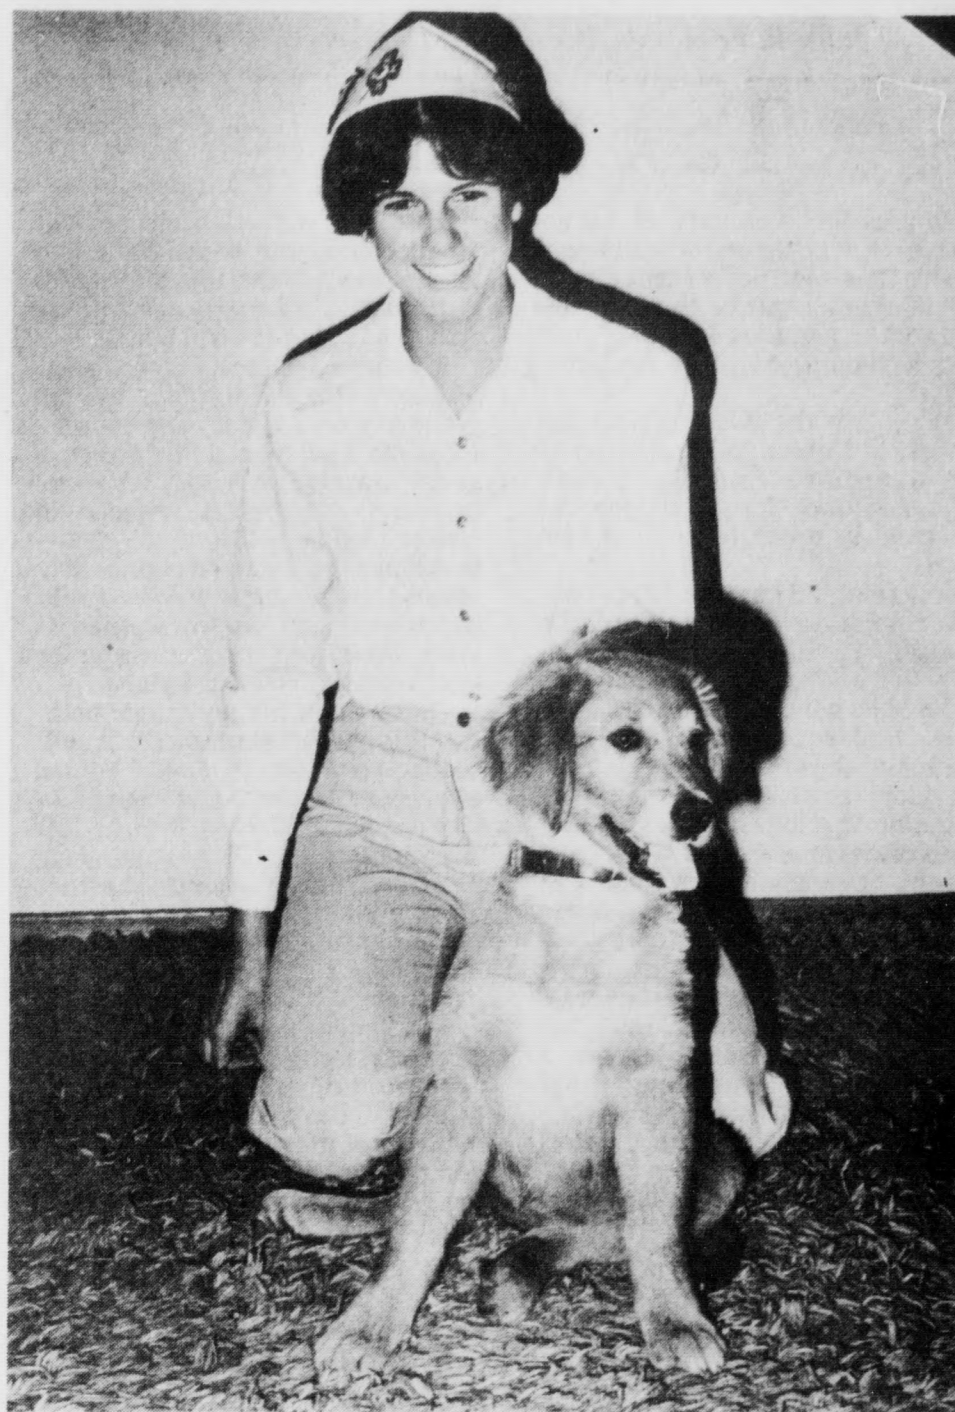

The 4-Her has the option to keep Prudence if she should flunk the extensive Guide Dog training, and when she retires after eight years of serving a blind master. "It's not hard giving them up now," declares the ninth grader, "because we know from the start that the puppies will have to leave."

Marie and her star pupil will be guest speakers at Valley View School Thursday, Jan. 20 in the multi-purpose room. A movie on guide dogs for the blind will be shown and Marie will talk about some of her experiences in the program. Admission is free and open to the public.

Anyone with questions about the 4-H program may call Mrs. Clark at 846-8733 or Mrs. Hunt at 846-4132.

Mardi Gras!

A limited number of tickets to the 1977 Mardi Gras Ball, sponsored by the Pleasanton Juniors, will go on sale to the public tomorrow.

The gala event, "Couronnes et Sceptres" or "Crowns and Scepters," is set Feb. 19 at Castlewood Country Club in Pleasanton. Tickets will be sold for $12.50 per person.

No-host cocktails at 6 p.m. will be followed by dinner at 7 o'clock and dancing to music by "Beowulf" until 1 a.m. The club which raises the most funds at the Juniors' Monte Carlo Nite Feb. 5 will reign over the ball.

Tickets will be available after 8 a.m. Jan. 20 at the home of Lori Barry, 4603 Sierrawood Lane, Pleasanton.

NSSF tantalizes palate

Expert cooks are preparing fifteen international specialties for the annual membership party of the Nursery School Scholarship Fund. This gourmet gala with international food and wine-tasting will be held Saturday, Feb. 5, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., at the Wente Winery in Livermore.

"We have printed fifty fewer tickets this year than last," she continues, "so it would be a good idea for people to get their tickets early."

Membership donation is $5. per person. Tickets and further information are available from Barbara Tuck, 846-6031, Peggy Volponi, 447-0569, and Joyce Brown, 443-3603.

The Nursery School Scholarship Fund provides pre-school education for children of low-income families.

Single parents set activities

Young artists are encouraged to submit work for the International Youth Exhibit Awards sponsored by Parents Without Partners. Entry deadline is today for the local contest, with judging slated next week. For information contact Martha Cherry at 447-3919.

PWP plans adult activities tonight at the home of Annette Hoff, 4810 Canary Dr., Pleasanton. For information call 846-6328.

Single parents are welcome to the club's weekly gathering for newcomers Sunday, Jan. 23 at the home of Merlene Wodehouse, 633 Lido Dr., Livermore. For information about the 7:30 p.m. event, call 443-3967.

Adults and children over 12 will enjoy volleyball Monday, Jan. 24 at Almond Avenue School, and Sharon Rawson will host a party Jan. 29. Further information about PWP is available from Bill Mitchell at 846-5566 or the answering service at 443-0802.

Bike for the blind

Dennis Strobbridge, 21, is the first sightless person to go for a spin on the Bicycle Touring Club's new tandem bike, purchased with the help of a $400 donation from the Dublin-San Ramon Lions Club. The idea of bike trips for the blind was dreamed up by Bob Powers over two years ago, when the avid cyclist heard of a similar successful program with the San Diego Knickerbikers. The valley bike club, which sponsors bike rides of various distances, contributed $200 towards the tandem. Dennis is a senior at Canyon High School in Castro Valley and eventually hopes to become a minister.

Hospital gala offers the best of the grape

Eleven prestigious Napa Valley vintners will join forces with Children's Hospital Branches, Inc., for the 21st year to present their finest wines to the public Saturday, Jan. 22 at Golden Gate Field's Turf Club in Albany.

The annual wine-tasting will be open from 5:30 to 8 p.m. and benefits Children's Hospital Medical Center.

No tickets will be available at the door. For reservations contact Carolyn Matthias at 284-9514 (Lafayette) or Febe Rumwell at 376-5333 (Moraga).

Tax sharing

Would the residents of Livermore — given the many municipal needs now confronting that city — be likely to approve the expenditure of $1.5 million in local funds for a second downtown underpass?

What are the odds against the people in Dublin, in Pleasanton or in Livermore voting to siphon $250,000 out of this year's general revenue in order to build a new park?

Where would paving of the abundant parking acres around the Concord Pavilion stand in that city's list of "local municipal projects to be done in 1977?"

Well, dear taxpayer, you are building those underpasses and developing those parks and expanding this or that local utility regardless of any other choice you might have made for those dollars. The name of the game these days is "Federal revenue sharing," and — for want of any clearer title — it is a game bureaucrats play for high stakes, with other people's hard-earned cash.

Now, this is one newspaper that will join in welcoming that $1.5 million for the Livermore underpass; we will gloat along with the rest of you over new cash for local parks; and we will welcome the extra cop on the beat, the added fire protection and the new health care unit ... all made possible by that windfall of federal bucks.

But those are really your bucks. Money gathered through the income tax and the God-knows-what tax and then sent through a great maze of bureaus, to be returned — somewhat reduced in size and value by the experience — to finance that beloved community luxury; one which never would have won your approval, had it been submitted as a community tax question in the first place.

That kind of money magic bothers this public servant; it should bother you, too. It should bother city councils and local boards to the extent that they would tell Washington ... "You keep your damned federal revenue sharing, and we'll keep our right of choice for programs we need most, financed by resources we know we can spare."

Local government won't do that, of course, until they are convinced every American is hep to the game of tax-dollar-shuffle which the politicians play. As long as you don't care, they won't care; and the game goes on and on.

Have a heart

When Peter Finch collapsed and died in a hotel lobby last week, the widespread reaction was one of surprise, and shock that "a man at the peak of his career could be taken like that."

A great many Americans are being "taken like that." Well before their time, while they are still vital members of this world.

The American Heart Association this year has taken as its theme, "We're fighting for your life." Cartoons and messages of that same slogan will appear occasionally on this page. We want to play our part in keeping more of you around, in the prime of your life.

Dublin school flap

Since Dec. 7, The Times and probably every other community newspaper in Dublin has experienced a gain in readership.

Angry homeowners near Frederiksen School peruse every inch of the daily editions. They don't want more surprises like the one they found washed all over page one two weeks before Christmas.

It was on Dec. 7 that the Murray School Board's decision to convert Frederiksen was announced. Since then the school's neighbors have been mobilizing.

Beginning next fall, Frederiksen will become a junior high school for seventh and eighth graders. It is now a grammar school.

Nearby residents are almost unanimous in their opposition to the change. Whether or not they deserve it, junior high school-aged kids have the stigma of being trouble makers.

Homeowners, prepared for the worst, fear stepped up vandalism, more noise, perhaps even plummeting property values (though a Times check with realtors indicated that wouldn't happen).

Opponents of conversion are engaged in an 11th-hour struggle to maintain Frederiksen's current status. They've already staged protest meetings. One petition has been circulated throughout the school neighborhood. Last weekend another petition was carried door-to-door. Along with it, volunteers carried a pledge sheet to solicit dollar donations. Their aim is to raise $1,000 for an attorney who would ostensibly wage legal combat against the school board.

Most of the pledges on the first day of campaigning were in the $5-$10 range.

Solicitors were hopeful of reaching their goal. Meanwhile, at least one volunteer expressed hope that if nothing else, the campaign would alert more residents to the impending conversion.

She had known little about a proposed status change, it was admitted, until The Times, and other newspapers, spread the word Dec. 7. It had been the same with numerous homeowners who have suddenly become experts on the subject.

"I just never bothered to read the paper during the summer when all the talking was going on," said the volunteer. "It was that way with a lot of us. I don't want to know who's murdering who, or who's crashing on the freeway, so I never picked up the paper. But now that this has happened, I read it faithfully every day."

A glance at back issues might even cause a greater stir among those who are leading the anti-conversion campaign. A few may not know that a citizen's committee on conversion was organized by the school district. Committee members undertook a lengthy study of changes in the Murray district. Public hearings were convened. Reams of paperwork were compiled.

The citizen's committee recommended conversion of Dublin School to accommodate future junior high students. Murray school board members ignored the conclusion, the weeks of study and testimony, and selected Frederiksen.

More community interest before the fact may have swayed their decision. Frederiksen's neighbors, some of them, anyway, waited too long.

Steps leading to conversion of the school were well documented in the newspaper. That's the press' job — inform people in plenty of time so they can help shape policy.

Some angry Dublin residents learned the lesson too late. Next time, they'll read about it first.

Child abuse

Have you ever noticed that too many children are mistreated?

Try watching what some of them have to put up with in public from parents. Even tiny tots are often put through emotional and physical hoops that barely stop behind lines of flagrant child abuse.

I moved around the U.S.A. 17 times in 20 years while raising my own children and saw child misuse every place we lived. You've seen it too, I'll bet.

It happens in grocery stores, department stores, on streets, in cars and churches.

Ma and pa act like they're scared John Q. Public will think they can't discipline their children. What kind of ego trip is that?

Young ones are pushed, pulled, jerked and yelled at to let John Q. know "I can handle my kid." Slaps are sometimes used in counterpoint.

Frustration, resentment toward the child and other such factors bring on parental meanness, too.

I'm not referring to the frustrated parent who occasionally gets driven to displays of aggression. (Although some of these outbursts could be avoided.) Kids can drive you up four walls and across the ceiling, especially when you're not feeling up to par.

I refer to hard-core, overbearing, selfish, impatient parents who never let up. I've pondered the I.Q. of that type. They force obedience from children by using power control. They forget kids will grow up and probably retaliate.

Children may feel sick, be tired, hungry, cold or wet. They shouldn't have been dragged out in the first place. But ma and/or pa are going to make them behave — or else. I wonder how ma and/or pa would behave if the situation was reversed?

Can you imagine slapping a hungry man? Would you like to be in the line of fire after yelling at a tired woman who has just finished five loads of laundry and the ironing?

During the past holiday season, I heard parents screaming at children more than usual. I remember one young mother in a department store swearing at the top of her lungs, "G—d— you, Billy. Get over here right now or I'll beat your a—."

Billy appeared. He was a cherub-faced three-year-old. He had been trying to amuse himself by looking down the next aisle while his mothers searched for a pair of slacks. She smacked him twice across the face before walking away dragging him along.

Have you noticed how many children are totally ignored until their pleas for attention reach a pitch that brings on parental wrath?

"Shut up," the parent finally screams. "You behave right now or else."

If the kid gets the parent's attention, he or she tries to say everything fast before losing it again. Observe how nervous these kids are.

One kind word from the parent in the beginning might have prevented the whole scene. Better yet — if possible, leave kids at home with a reliable sitter.

Bringing them to stores filled with prominently displayed candy, gum and toys nearly always ends with tears and screams at the checkout stands.

Leaving children alone in a car is another form of misuse. That kind of responsibility is too heavy for them. Parents are fooling themselves if they think their kids will behave alone in a car. There should be a law against it.

In cold weather, how many times have you seen parents bundled up while the kids are coatless and often barefoot? And isn't it cute when ma or pa laugh at a child until it cries?

The sad thing is, parents seldom receive training on how to raise children prior to having them. They may have learned to play flamenco guitar with flashing fingers. But parent or marriage training are not usually boned up on until mom and dad are well into the fray and foundering.

Bob Bronzan, Livermore High School vice-principal, suggests parents absorb all they can from books, lectures, workshops and other sources dealing with child-rearing than tailor that knowledge to suit their family's individual needs. Bronzan has had 13 years experience with parent-child relationships. He gives lectures and offers workshops for parents.

The problem is that parents who would benefit most from such learning rarely seek help. They don't seem to know they need it.

Hindsight/Foresight

School busing

Mention school busing to a parent in this Valley and you're almost certain to turn a calm individual into an emotional and vocal activist.

Fortunately, we have not had the type of busing problems that turned Boston into an armed camp for much of the past two years.

The "fighting words" hereabouts are triggered by any consideration of having more K-6 students bused — especially if its from a neighborhood school of former attendance.

The Amador and Pleasanton districts found themselves impaled on the horns of what basically is an economic dilemma slightly more than a year ago.

The districts found they would have to cut bus service to some areas as an economy measure. It did not sit well at all with parents in the Silvergate area of Dublin.

Sometime later, parents in the Vintage Hills area of Pleasanton were "up in arms" over elimination of some school bus stops.

In both situations parents flocked to the district offices to complain. And in each instance, "adjustments" satisfactory to most were made.

Now San Ramon, at least the southern section, finds itself with a busing problem, though caused by much different circumstances.

And Murray is in the midst of a difference of opinion on conversion, which incorporates busing of additional children to and from new schools (new to the students, that is). The prospective busing of more K-6 students has already caused sparks to fly and more are expected, particularly from those students that might be affected by redistricting.

The conversion-busing situation could well become a prime school board campaign issue.

San Ramon's altered busing problem was caused by the fire which gutted Neil Armstrong School last October.

Now, most of the Armstrong students are bused into Walt Disney each day (while the Disney students are almost totally "walkers").

But this situation has brought almost total cooperation from parents affected — as reported in part in a story in Sunday's Times.

The necessity to bus the Armstrong students could have brought forth some angry parents — but it didn't. The administration acted quickly and boldly to enlist the aid of parents and turn a possible bad situation into one that brought school staff, parents and children closer together.

Above all, San Ramon made sure the affected parents knew about the options and drew them into the planning process (via a mass meeting at California High School last October).

It is this type of action that other school districts in this Valley should take note of.

School Volunteers

To The Times:
Attention, Pat Kennedy —

I really appreciated your fine article and the feature space the paper allowed.

It looks like we'll have 30-40 volunteers going from Livermore with most registrations paid by the schools.

At the planning committee meeting yesterday we heard that nearly 500 have registered from all over the state and in every capacity from volunteer to superintendent.

Thanks again for your support for volunteerism and the efforts of those involved in improving it.

Kay Honodel
Volunteer Coordinator
Livermore Unified School District

Hotline helper

Dear Times' Staff:

Hotline Inc. and its component Project AIRE thank you for your interest and support of the projects and services offered by the program over the past year.

We sincerely appreciate your response to requests from us in announcing youth, family, drug and alcohol related services and reports about our organization. We rely to a large extent on the media for making known our services in the community and for receiving information from the community as to what services appear to be needed.

We look forward to a new year of continuing good communication and especially thank the management and reporters we have worked with in the past for their interest and courtesy.

Executive Director

Pipeline planners

To the LAVVMA Board:

In sitting through the presentation by the new engineers, CH2M HILL on Thursday, it became obvious to me that you, as a LAVVMA Board, were in a "NO WIN" situation. This new firm was from the same "Club" as the previous ones and did not bring forth any new alternatives ... Professional engineers, in waste treatment, are all cut from the same cloth ...

Therefore, you, as representatives of the people who will pay the bill, should try to ... pick out the real issues. 1. The effluent we are presently discharging into Alameda Creek is of the highest quality of any in the entire United States ... 2. The only reason we have been asked to stop discharging into Alameda Creek is because Fremont wants to improve their water. ... 3. The national concern in preserving resources has changed significantly since this project was first conceived ...

4. The Valley is being forced by ... Government "Czars" to conform to an arbitrary quality control standard of effluent that very few other cities in the United States are required to meet. ... 5. The people of this valley have expressed their opinion of what they thought of the "pipeline over the hill" ... The pipeline is a "stop gap" measure at best that is inflexible to new innovations ... The wasted energy required to pump the water over the hill will be the equivalent of a city nearly the size of Dublin ...

Every citizen in the valley would rather pay for better water than to pay 40 millions of dollars for treating our effluent so we can improve someone else's water. Many are already paying around $10 per month to treat their own water ...

In our valley there are thousands of acres of agriculture land that could benefit from irrigation of an improved effluent ...

You are a newly constituted Board, charged with the responsibility of finding a solution to our current dilemma. Don't be pressured by deadlines, Regional and Federal ultimatums, or threats of withholding funds. The public will put up with some inconveniences now to give you time to consider what is best for this Valley.

Cancer recovery

Editor, The Times:

On behalf of the Service and Rehabilitation Committee of the Alameda County Unit, American Cancer Society, I wish to express our sincere appreciation for the outstanding article recently carried in your newspaper on our society's Reach-to-Recovery program for women who have had mastectomies.

In recounting her interview with our volunteer, Mrs. Dezanis, your reporter Ms. McKenna truly reflected the heart and spirit of this invaluable rehabilitation service.

Thank you for sharing this worth while program with your readers.

Round the town

"It is very nice," I advised her, as we stood back to admire the new Bulova on the office wall.

She had acquired this handsome time piece because, as she explained, "since you refuse to wear a wrist watch and that funny little electric thing on the wall keeps going off ..."

Actually the funny little electric thing only "goes off" when the janitor hits the wrong electric switches. At night, which terminates the electrified time from that moment until the switch is thrown "on" again. It could be most disconcerting, if I were a reporter concerned with time.

I'm not. She is. "This new one works on batteries," she explains, quite pleased with herself. It is handsome enough ... a somewhat smallish copy of those grandfather clocks, with the pendulum that swings back and forth, back and forth.

"I hope the noise doesn't bother you," she says.

I had not noticed the noise until then. Now it booms forth like Big Ben, without a breather. I approach this time - keeping marvel to better admire its craftsmanship.

"It's not REALLY solid wood," she warns me, anticipating my reaction. "Macy's had them on sale."

Genuine plastic, or something. But not wood. Macy's Bicentennial Year salute to the time of our grandfathers.

"It is still very nice," I insist, graciously. But I am not much of a clock admirer, or watcher.

The immortal Gods alone have neither age nor death!

All other things almighty time disquiets.

I think Sophocles was trying to tell us that we are all slaves to the clock, ulcerated to the Bulova beat. Which is only one reason I long ago abandoned the wrist watch fad.

There was this handsome Rolex from my youth. Carried the blessed thing through Atlantic convoy duty. Clutched it to my bosom (actually just trying to keep my hands warm) when Hitler's U boats lurked timelessly off the port bow.

The Rolex rarely kept the correct time. "Too much electricity in your system," the Halifax watchmaker advised me. But he took it under his loving care nonetheless, to see what he could do for my off-time Rolex.

What he did was get it smashed and stolen. Along with every other blessed thing in his shop. Part of the great VE Day riots. The Canadian Navy, in its official wisdom, turned loose 200,000 freedom-loving sailors on Halifax. To better celebrate "Victory in Europe!"

The Halifax city council, in its unfathomable logic, ordered all of the city's shops closed tight. Including the "bottle shops." The 200,000 celebrating sailors did the only logical thing ... they re-opened all those shops, along with all the bottles therein.

My watchmaker's shop got caught in the rush. The place was obliterated. The Rolex was long ago. Years later, the Canadian government settled up with the City of Halifax ... "for damages rendered by His Majesty's armed forces during a moment of high tension ..." They gave me cash with which to purchase a new Rolex. I kept the money. Haven't worn a watch since.

Backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight,

Make me a child again just for tonight!

I wouldn't go back, not for all the clocks in Halifax. Nova Scotia is not my favorite place. Before or after Her Majesty's sailors wrecked the place ... "in a moment of high tension." It was Halifax's only high moment on record, if you discount the time the ammunition ships blew up and wiped out half the town. I always wondered if that was why the people of Halifax were so unfriendly ...

"I've been meaning to ask you," I asked the lady who gives away plastic Bulovas from Macy's. "Had you noticed that the small hand and the big hand on this timepiece are of one and the same size? ... a body can't tell whether it's five after four or 20 minutes past one. Most disconcerting," I conclude.

"You're right!" she says, as though it were the very first time. "I really didn't notice that when I bought the clock ... do you suppose that's why Macy's had them on sale?"

A clever advertising idea. "MACY'S OFFERS DISCOUNT ON TIME ... 10 PER CENT OFF EVERY HOUR ... WHILE THEY LAST."

Or perhaps it's just that the Macy clock works are heavy on big hands this month, but fresh out of small hands. "Make all the clocks with big hands," says Chief Macy Clockmaker, "no woman is ever going to notice the difference, not as long as they're on sale."

Father, dear father, come home with me now,

The clock in the belfry strikes one;

You said you were coming right home from the shop

As soon as your day's work was done.

If father worked in Macy's clock shop, he was probably nipping at the cider wheel before quitting time. Got so he couldn't tell his big hand from the small hand. Another timeless testimonial to the evils of booze.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a woman, 23 years of age. I have very bad varicose veins and have had for three years. This is very inconvenient since in the warm weather it is too embarrassing to wear shorts, and I can only wear dresses with leotards. They are so severe that surgical hose are not much help.

My previous doctor said surgery was only for older women. My present doctor said if I want it done he'd go ahead with the operation; in fact he suggested it.

What does the operation entail? Are there scars left? Will the veins disappear, including the spider ones as well as the large ones? Would you suggest that I continue to wear the surgical hose after the operation?

DEAR READER—The real answer to your question has to be based on the condition of your veins as determined by an examination. Your first doctor was right in saying that surgery is usually delayed until a woman is older. Why? Because a young woman in your age group may have one or more pregnancies, and that will usually increase the extent of the varicose veins. It is good to be able to correct the whole problem once and not have to do multiple operations.

Your present doctor is probably right if your condition is really far advanced. If your superficial leg veins are so large that they do not contribute anything to their venous circulation and they cause your legs to look unsightly, there may not be much to gain by delaying the surgery. Current thinking is that correction may even help prevent further changes.

Varicose veins are overstretched veins. You can't correct them any way except by surgery. You can minimize the leg swelling and help improve circulation with support hose, surgical hose or even elastic bandages, but the basic defect in the veins is still there.

The operation is usually simple. A common method is to identify the veins to be removed, make a small incision at the top and bottom of each segment to be removed, then literally strip out the vein. There will not be long unsightly scars from ankle to hip. Smaller branches that can be identified are also removed.

Usually the patient is allowed to walk brief periods the first post-operative day, but elastic bandages must be used. The patient is not allowed to sit around with the feet hanging down. Elastic support to the leg is usually continued for at least two to three weeks after surgery. The sutures are commonly taken out in the second post-operative week.

Small veins that connect the superficial veins with the deep ones that you can't see may be involved, and these may become apparent after surgery. These may then need to be injected with sclerosing agents or tied off.

Whether you will need elastic support after recovery from surgery depends on the individual case. If you have involvement of the deep veins as well, you may need to wear support hose.

To give you more information on what varicose veins are and what to do for them I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-8. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper P.O. For Wednesday, Jan. 19, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something may occur today to head you in a fresh direction though it could be difficult to sever a tie with the past, it may be wise to do so.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your experience has shown that something affecting your work or career is counterproductive. It's time to review, and come up with better methods.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Joint ventures are a mixed bag for you today. If you're on the beam, they could be advantageous. If you miss the mark, chances are you'll lose valuable ground.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There'll be an opportunity today for you to rectify an injustice you've rendered to one you've recently crossed swords with. By all means do so.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Innovate today in your endeavors, but do it in a logical manner. Use the same good sense that got you there to keep you on top.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Playing the role of the big spender will produce an effect opposite from what you intended. Those who benefit will laugh inwardly at your folly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have the opportunity to alleviate a vexing personal situation, but you are reluctant to make the changes. Better to sever than to suffer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Affix your name to nothing that you are uncertain of. If you feel there's the slightest doubt, consult the experts before putting it in writing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're hanging on a slim thread today financially. The fault lies not so much with you as with those for whom you feel responsible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have a choice today between prestige or pay. Forget the title. Go for the bucks. You can always get the acclaim if you have the accumulation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Allow your instinct to rule over your recollection today. A previous bad experience could lead you to make a decision not based on sound reasoning.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be a pal today, but don't let camaraderie trap you into a reaction that could be demeaning for you and ineffectual for those you're trying to help.

Jan. 19, 1977

A promising new era is dawning for you this coming year. Strive to look forward and not to the past. The flow of events is favorable to you.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North's two-club call was a decided underbid. His 19-point hand was really worth some sort of jump after his partner responded with one spade. On the other hand, North did not know just what jump to make. He didn't like the idea of a jump raise with just three trumps or a jump in clubs or hearts with his actual holdings in those suits. So he bid two clubs and hoped his partner would not pass.

South didn't pass. He raised clubs to three. North bid three spades, South went on to game and all of a sudden West doubled. The double looks insane but there was a lot of method in West's madness. He was sure that his partner could ruff a club!

So West opened a club. East ruffed and returned a diamond to West's ace. A second club ruff was the third trick for the defense and then, as West explained later on, it was only reasonable to assume that East could produce a trick of his own.

East did. He held the ace of trumps and since the game was match points, West's double had given them a top score.

In the Bag Shooters brave cold, wind

Charlie Litz

Terry Ludlowe, chairman of the Running Deer Committee at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club, reports that the recent practice shoot at the club was well attended.

In spite of the cold wind, fog, and temperature in the 40 - degree range—several different clubs were on hand. Judging by the practice, competition will be tough at the first competition shoot on February 6.

The various clubs represented at the practice all claim they will be the winning team. That's good, because such talk builds up a lot of enthusiasm. See you out there.

Bill Kusich says he thinks he'll be a winner, using a Browning auto chambered. "My favorite round (30/06) sure lays 'em in there, so if I do my part, it's a winner as far as I'm concerned." Bill is a real tough competition shooter.

The LLLRA Fishing Club will hold a Sturgeon Derby on January 29 and 30. Club members and their families, as well as members and their families from Sandia are eligible.

Mel Kaywood and Al Ryan, derby chairman, said they would try something new this year—since a striper may come along, as well as sturgeon, they will be included in the derby.

Weigh-in times will be 5 AM to 9 PM on Saturday, and 5 AM to 5 PM Sunday. Tickets are $1.50, with one prize per ticket on the largest catch. There will be weighing both days, but only the largest will count from the top prizes. Weight station will be at the Martinez Marina.

Gather up your ticket, open bait and heavy tackle, your fishing buddy, lunch, boat, etc. and try your luck over the two-day derby.

The DFG reports that nine lambs were born during the past year in the Lava Beds National Monument. That is the site of the experimental reintroduction of California Big-horn sheep to their former range.

A survey of 14 desert waterholes in the Santa Rosa and San Jacinto mountains gave a count of 253 Big-horns. Water for the sheep was provided chiefly by two major guzzlers with 5,100 - gallons capacity.

More than 50,000 persons completed the Hunter Safety Courses given throughout California during 1976, according to a DFG report. The effect of this training is seen in the current hunter casualty rate of 1.4 accidents per 10,000 licensed hunters, compared to a pre-program rate of 3.1.

Volunteer safety course instructors have done a tremendous job in teaching safe hunting practices. Locally such courses are given through a good portion of the year at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club.

This weekend will close the 1976-77 General Waterfowl Season in California. Sunset on January 23 will be the last day.

However, the black sea brant season opened January 15 and will continue through February 20. Limits for these big black birds are four per day and eight in possession.

A two-day rabbit hunt has been scheduled on the Grizzly Island Wildlife Area 10 miles southeast of Fairfield, according to an announcement from the Region 3 office of the Department of Fish and Game in Yountville.

No reservations or fees are required for the hunt beginning Saturday, Jan. 29, which will be conducted on a first-come, first-served basis.

However, hunters must have a permit from the check station before entering the area, and no more than 225 hunters will be permitted on the area at one time.

The checking station will open at 6 AM both Jan. 19 and 30; and hunting will be permitted from 8 AM until sunset. For reasons of safety, the issuance of permits may be delayed if there is heavy fog during morning hours.

Shotguns and bows and arrows may be used, but no shotgun-rifle combinations, rifles, pellet guns, pistols, revolvers or shotguns larger than 12-gauge may be possessed in the area.

Each hunter under 16 years must be accompanied by an adult 18 or older. No adult may sign for more than two junior hunters. All hunters must have a valid California hunting license.

Limits for cottontails are five per day, five in possession. There is no bag limit on jackrabbits.

Barry revives, Warriors win

By Charlie Zeno

OAKLAND — The Golden State Warriors welcomed Superstar Rick Barry back to double figure scoring as they rolled to a 107-101 victory over high flying Denver before a sell-out crowd of 13,155 at Oakland Coliseum Tuesday night.

The win snapped a two-game losing string at home for the Warriors, now 22-20 in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association. Denver, dropped to 29-13, but still well out in front of the NBA's Midwest Division.

Both teams came out running and shooting in the first quarter that gave the Warriors a 35-32 edge behind the shooting of Cliff Ray and Jamaal Wilkes.

Ray, who learned earlier in the day that back-up center George Johnson has been traded to Buffalo, responded with 5 field goals and a free throw in the initial stanza for 11 points.

Wilkes, hitting from the corners on his favorite shot, added 10 to the early flurry.

Muscular Dan Issel and David Thompson countered with seven apiece for the Nuggets.

Denver went with its "Shock Troops" in the second period and the reserves surprisingly took charge at one point and opened a seven point gap over the Warriors. Byron Beck and Jim Price did the damage with six points each.

But the Warriors bounced back behind the shooting of Barry and rookie Robert Parrish to surge onto a 64-58 half time lead.

The turning point came on Phil Smith's three-point play that tied the score at 58 all with 1:20 left in the half. Barry then hit a 20 foot jumper from the top of the key and Parrish followed with a lay-in and a slam-dunk for the six-point spread at the intermission.

Barry, who has experienced difficulty scoring and shooting in recent games, netted 10 of his game high 26 points in the second quarter while Parrish added nine.

Wilkes was runner-up for Golden State in the scoring column with 24 points, followed by Ray and Smith with 15 each and Parrish, 13.

Issel led the Nuggets with 25 while Thompson was next with 14.

Johnson goes to Buffalo

George Johnson

OAKLAND — The Golden State Warriors traded back-up center George Johnson to the Buffalo Braves for a 1977 first-round draft choice yesterday.

Johnson, 6-11 and 220 pounds, was in his fourth year with the Warriors. Playing behind Clifford Ray, the Dillard graduate averaged 5.4 rebounds and 4.4 points per game.

Johnson was acquired by the Warriors as a free agent in 1972 while working in a bank in the San Francisco Bay area and playing semi-pro ball with the Martinez Muirs of the Western Basketball Association.

He had been drafted in 1970 by the Chicago Bulls, but did not make the team and also failed in a tryout with the Harlem Globetrotters.

He was ranked fifth in the league in blocked shots last season and had the best single game in the National Basketball Association with 11 rejects against Chicago.

The Braves will have to release a player to make room for Johnson. The Warriors have played with three centers this year after drafting seven-foot Robert Parish from Centenary.

Johnson did not play for Golden State against the Denver Nuggets last night and will probably join the Braves on the road later this week.

"George has been a big contributor in the two most successful seasons in the club's history and that contribution is greatly appreciated," said Warriors coach Al Attles. "George has some exceptional skills and will be a big factor for the Buffalo team."

Falcon booter prep winner

Foothill High School has been the surprise of the East Bay Athletic League soccer season this season and one of the big reasons has been senior forward Bruno Dulaurier.

Bruno scored five goals in two games last week as the Falcons took the EBAL lead with a 7-2 mark. As a result of his feats, Dulaurier is this week's Alameda County Fleeto Prep of the week.

The 5-11, 160 pound Falcon also added an assist.

Contra Costa County's winner is Joe Doherty a 6-6, 210 pound basketball center from Salesian of Richmond.

Dulaurier scored twice in Foothill's 3-1 win over Dublin last Tuesday. He came back on Friday and tallied three times in a 6-1 victory over San Ramon on the losers' field.

Bruno is Foothill's leading scorer with six goals in nine games. He also has six assists.

Doherty scored 50 points and grabbed 30 rebounds in two games last week. In a losing game against St. Joseph Joe scored 15 points and pulled down 15 rebounds. Saturday night against Miramonte he tallied 35 points and took 15 rebounds in the Chieftens' 70-55 win. He also hit nine of 10 free throws and 13 of 20 from the floor. Salesian is 12-8 for the season.

P.J. Moore of California High was a Contra Costa nominee. The 5-7, 110 pound sophomore scored 31 points in the Grizzlies' 43-40 win over San Ramon in EBAL girls' basketball action.

She scored 17 more points in a losing cause to Monte Vista. She also grabbed 18 rebounds.

Other Contra Costa nominees were Bart Bauer of Campolindo and Mike Johnson of Pittsburg.

Bauer, a 6-1, 175 pound junior, plays both center and forward for the Cougars. He scored 23 points against Miramonte in a 83-64 victory last Tuesday. He came back to score 30 more points in an 89-49 win over Liberty last Friday.

Johnson, 6-2, 200 pounds scored 30 points in two games the Pirates split. He hit for 29 markers against Ignacio as the Pirates won. He hit on 13 of 18 from the floor and made a perfect three of three from the charity stripe. Other Alameda County nominees were Paul Flenoid of Albany and Ken Hardin of top-ranked Fremont of Oakland.

Hardin has his best game of the season last week when he scored 23 points and hit on 10 of 16 shots from the field. Hardin, a transfer from St. Elizabeth's, is the bellweather of what is possibly Northern California's finest high school basketball team.

Flenoid is an outstanding wrestler in the 135-pound class. He is 13-1 on the year with nine pins. Last week he was trailing 4-1 before coming back to pin Steve Lucero of Encinal.

Don girls win, 40-31

Amador Valley High School girls' basketball team continued its success with a 40-31 win over Granada in East Bay Athletic League action last night.

Last weekend the Dons took third in the Concord Girls' Classic Invitational.

Turner, Kuhn talk

WASHINGTON — Ted Turner and a group of Atlanta civic leaders met with baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Tuesday to discuss the one-year suspension imposed on the Braves owner. No decision will be forthcoming until early next week.

Kuhn met with the 38-year-old Turner, suspended Dec. 30 although no starting date of the disciplinary action has been announced, and the civic group led by Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson for an hour.

"We had a very friendly chat," Turner told newsmen afterward. "Nothing was resolved. He gave us no reason to believe that he would change his decision and gave us no indication of a lessening of the penalty."

In addition to Turner's suspension for violating Kuhn's directive on the free-agent regulations, the Braves also lost their first-round draft choice in last week's amateur draft.

Mayor Jackson said after the morning meeting that his group had asked Kuhn to reconsider his decision and relieve Turner of the suspension. If the commissioner is unable to do that, said Jackson, "we recommended that he make it less severe."

"The thrust of our argument is that we think Turner is important to baseball, to Atlanta and the entire Southeast," Jackson said.

Kuhn told newsmen that "I am very flattered that these men have come here. The hour was very useful." Through a spokesman, Kuhn said he "hopes and intends to make a decision early next week. Both sessions were very useful in trying to make a decision."

Turner was suspended for his violation of a Kuhn directive on how to deal with free-agent players.

Hall of Fame Banks, Bunning best bets

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The Baseball Writers Association of America announces the results of its Hall of Fame balloting today with five top players eligible for admission for the first time.

Sluggo Ernie Banks and pitcher Jim Bunning head the five new names under consideration for election to baseball's most exclusive lodge.

Bunning, with 224 career victories, had the most wins of the 10 pitchers on the ballot. Lew Burdette, who won 203 games and Don Drysdale with 209, are the other 200-game winners hoping for election.

Banks' 512 homers tied him with another Hall of Fame candidate, Ed Matthews, for ninth on the all-time list.

Mathews finished fifth on last year's balloting with 189 votes, 102 short of the 291 required for election. Only two players, right-handed pitchers Robin Roberts and Bob Lemon, received the 75 per cent vote required for election.

The late Gil Hodges finished third in the vote with 233 votes, 58 short of the minimum. Then came Enos Slaughter with 197, Mathews with 189, Pee Wee Reese with 186, the late Nelson Fox with 174 and Duke Snider with 159. All appeared on this year's ballot.

Besides Bunning and Banks, newcomers to the ballot this year were Harvey Kuenn, Curt Flood and Camilo Pascual.

Cooperstown candidates usually have a tough time winning election on their first swing. Only seven players have made it in their initial year of eligibility. They were Jackie Robinson, Mickey Mantle, Bob Feller, Ted Williams, Warren Spahn, Stan Musial and Sandy Koufax.

Among the stars who missed on the first chance were Joe DiMaggio, who was elected in his third year of eligibility, Yogi Berra, who made in his second year, and both of last year's inductees, Roberts and Lemon.

Two Hall of Famers, Ralph Kiner and Joe Medwick, had to wait until their 15th and final year of consideration before being voted in by the writers.

More than 400 ballots were mailed out to 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association and each writer was allowed to vote for up to 10 of the nominees. The list of eligibles had been pared by a committee of the organization before being presented to the voters.

Generally, candidates must wait five years after their retirement before being eligible for election. Those rules were waived for special cases like the late Roberto Clemente and the late Lou Gehrig. Players remain on the BBWAA list for 15 years and then must wait five more years before coming up for consideration again by the Veterans Committee. The Veterans Committee, which will meet Jan. 31 to hold its election, also names executives and umpires to the Hall of Fame.

Save 15¢ on Contadina Tomato Sauce

It's saucy not soupy!

That's because we use two kinds of tomatoes in our sauce. One for color and flavor. Another for rich tomato texture. Our saucy sauce is a good buy, too. It helps extend recipes, and makes even everyday meats taste better. So stock up while the price is down!

15¢ STORE COUPON
Here's 15¢ to try the saucy sauce!

Johnson's 28 stomps Trinity

Cliff Johnson fired in 28 points to lead Acme Trophies to an easy 57-31 win over Trinity Baptist in a Tri-Cities basketball contest recently.

Steve Grant added 15 points for the winners. Steve Bosch led the losers with seven markers. B.H. Martin was a steller playmaker for Trinity Baptist besides scoring two points.

Cheese Factory ecked out a 44-40 victory over Straw Hat as the losers hurled in 28 points in the second half but still came up short.

Dan Wolthers led the winners with 12 points and Dick Smith added 10. Don Clemetson had nine.

Steve Henson led Straw Hat with 11 markers and Gordy Drayage added nine.

Ideal Clack had a balanced attack in downing the 76ers 57-52. Dave Sparman led with 18 points, followed by Mike Mueller with 14 and Jim Shirley with 10. Chris Pane paced the 76ers with 14 points. Martin Pane added nine and John Walden and Dave Autzen each had eight markers.

Jones - Hocking State Farm Insurance poured in 25 points in the second half to overtake Dependable Heating 37-21. The losers could only cash eight points in the second half.

Randy Schmidt led the winners with 12 points and Jim Schmidt added 10. Jeff Chapman paced Dependable Heating with six markers.

Rick Brumme swished the nets for 22 markers in leading K.W. Penco past Intel 40-31.

Rich Stewart led the losers with 20 markers. Russ Haley added six for the losers.

Phelps sparks St. Michaels

Greg Phelps pumped in 18 points to spark St. Michaels to a 37-24 victory over St. Catherines in eight grade action of Diablo Valley CYO National League basketball competition recently.

Tod Zarembo had 15 for the losers. St. Stephens edged St. Michaels 29-24 in seventh grade action as Tom Burford eight for eight for the victors. Brian Ferreira had 10 for the losers.

St. Catherines bounced St. Michaels 23-10 in sixth grade action and St. Marys blasted St. Michaels 37-4 in fourth grade action.

In American League play Jeff Waters hit for nine points to spark St. Michaels past St. Isidores 16-8 in a sixth grade contest.

Robbie Merritt hit for six to spark St. Michaels past Christ the King 15-4 in a fifth grade game.

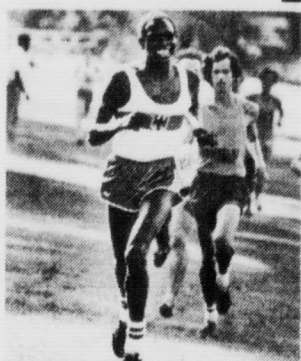

Christ the King reversed the results in a fourth grade contest, taking a tight 21-20 victory over St. Michaels.

Wesley Williamson and Mike Soares each had six points.

Mike Boit

Ready to peak

Mike aims for top

By Gary Brown

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO — After having been denied a chance to compete in the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal because of the African boycott you'd think Kenya's Mike Boit would be suffering an emotional letdown this year.

Not at all, according to Boit, who was one of the guests at a press conference luncheon at the Holiday Inn here yesterday for athletes who will compete in the Examiner Games Friday night at the Cow Palace.

"I think a 1:42 or 1:43 800-meters is within my reach, possibly this year," the quiet Stanford graduate student said. "It (the 800) is my favorite race because it involves different endurance and a lot more tactics than the 1,500."

Mike also plans to compete in the British Commonwealth Games this year and is aiming to peak for that competition.

The 6-foot, 145 pound athlete refused to let the Olympic boycott get him down last year, as he had perhaps his best season ever.

The 1972 Bronze winner in the 800 recorded six under-146:0 800's after Montreal, including an outstanding 1:43.57, just over Olympic champion Alberto Juantorena's world record of 1:43.5 set at the Games.

Mike won't be running his favorite race Friday, however. He'll take a try at the 1,500, where he's not exactly a slouch.

He has run a 3:37.4 1,500 and a 3:54 mile.

Boit admits he is slowly rounding into shape this season.

"I went home to Kenya for Christmas and when I came back it was hard to get back into shape," he said. "Once you stop working out it's very hard to pick it up again. I was very much out of shape when I came back here."

Top driver hurt

Shelly Goudreau, one of North America's leading harness drivers, suffered a possible injury to his right knee in a spectacular spill in midstretch of the $5500 Los Altos pace yesterday at Bay Meadows.

The 28-year-old native of Windsor, Ontario, Canada, was dispatched to nearby Mills Memorial Hospital for X-rays of the knee, but he was not otherwise injured, although being tossed violently to the track.

The accident occurred when Sterlings Hank, with Gene Vallandigham in the Sulky, broke stride and swerved into Knight Chance, driven by Goudreau. Wheels locked and Goudreau was pitched out of his buggy.

Last year, Goudreau represented Canada in the World Driving Championships in Australia. He is making his first appearance at the Meadows this season and he had already driven eight winners in just 28 drives to be the leading percentage reinsman.

Winner of the one mile feature, which was run as the seventh race on the program, turned up in Prudy's Boy, who paid $8.00 to win.

Stay unbeaten

Dons lead cage poll

Associated Press

San Francisco, Cincinnati and Alabama — all unbeaten — were the top three teams after the ballots were counted Tuesday in the weekly Associated Press major college basketball poll.

The San Francisco Dons stretched their record this season to 19-0 after lopsided victories over Pepperdine and Los Angeles - Loyola last week. The Dons received 38 of the 52 first place ballots and 982 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The Cincinnati Bearcats, 11-0, clobbered Dayton 84-61 and improved their position, advancing from No. 3 to No. 2. The Bearcats picked up four first place ballots and 798 points.

Kentucky, which had held the runner-up spot in last week's poll, fell to sixth place after dropping its second game of the season, a 71-67 overtime loss to Tennessee.

With blemished Kentucky out of the way, 14-0 Alabama moved into the No. 3 spot after victories last week over Mississippi and Mississippi State. The Crimson Tide were only 15 points behind Cincinnati after receiving three votes settled in 11th place and Arizona was rated 16th.

Three teams crashed the Top 20 — Tennessee, No. 14, Purdue, No. 19, and Syracuse, No. 20.

Clemson, Notre Dame and Oregon dropped out of the rankings.

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college basketball poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points.

Sacramento Tomato Juice. And Tomato Plus Vegetable Cocktail.

Sacramento, the tomato juice that's so smooth, so rich, and so thick, it plops when you pour it. It's made by our special process from lush, ripe, Sacramento Valley tomatoes.

And, for something different in a vegetable cocktail, try Sacramento Tomato Plus. It's spiked with the tangy taste of onion, celery and chili peppers. Plus what we think is the wildest blend of seasonings that ever went into a vegetable cocktail.

LIVERMORE — Lois R. Hill, called "Mrs. Recycling" by Mayor Helen Tirsell, wants the city to beef up efforts of recovering various resources used in this community.

Hill, coordinator of the Livermore Community Recycling Center, said the center was operating at a "stagnant level" when she presented an annual report Monday to the city council.

Reasons she gave why other recycling programs report steady increases were "home collection, centers that are open all the time, numerous drop-off points, doorknob flyers and other aggressive promotion methods."

"I believe it is time for Livermore to endeavor to increase volumes of materials recycled in the spirit of compliance with state recovery goals," she said. Noting such a program could not be handled by the present volunteer committee, she asked council to plan for a program to begin a year from now.

"Revenue from sale of recycled materials will not cover the entire cost," she said, "but a collection fee that is less than that charged for removal of mixed waste along with some governmental support will insure a profitable venture."

She also suggested using some of the increased franchise fee paid by Livermore Disposal Co. for recycling operations.

Hill asked the council to decide soon whether such a project would be public, private or combined; whether there would be competitive bidding; and whether such a program could be incorporated in the garbage contract.

Hill said she had already consulted Livermore Disposal Co. about possible participation, and had submitted recycling guidelines from the Environmental Protection Agency to Councilman Glen Dahlbacka, local representative to the county's solid waste board.

Dahlbacka, citing the state's 25 per cent source reduction goal, noted Berkeley recently reduced its volume by 20 per cent.

"That shows it is achievable," said Hill.

She said the present recycling format for Livermore will continue through 1977. Sponsoring groups have been scheduled for every Saturday.

Hill said oil recycling will start when a tank is installed by the city near the recycling center on Pacific Avenue.

Her report showed 1976 receipts totaled $7,648.71, an increase over the 1975 figure of $7,206.36.

The big money makers were clear glass ($2,226.38), colored glass ($1,976.45) and aluminum ($1,673.60).

Mental health service unit slates open house

The Southern Region Vocational Program, a mental health service of the Alameda County Health Agency, will hold an open house for the public and health professionals tomorrow from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. in Fairmont Hospital, San Leandro.

Work samples and products will be on display.

The vocational service is open to any person living in southern Alameda County who is experiencing or has experienced emotional difficulties. It has been in operation since 1975 under a grant from the Alameda County Training and Employment Board and the Associated Community Action Program (ACAP/ACTEB).

"Our program will assist a person to move through barriers which may be hindering their successful job placement," said Don Cote, program director.

The free service offers vocational planning, pre-occupational counseling, classroom training, work adjustment and experience, a transitional work program and job placement. The nine - person staff includes rehabilitation counselors, a work experience developer and a job developer.

There are stipends and wages available in certain parts of the program for persons who qualify, Cote said. Details are available at 577-1485.

Rec classes in Livermore still open

LIVERMORE — Anyone missing the recent registration night for Livermore Area Recreation and Park District winter classes can still register.

Yoga, karate, redwood burl table and snowshoe backpacking sessions still have a few spaces left. Children 10 years and up can enroll in baton classes.

Turkish cooking session No. 380 and quilting No. 711 are also available.

There are also openings in tap No. 396 and No. 397; ballet No. 402 and No. 404; and drawing and watercolor No. 586.

There are openings for adults in beginning guitar I, II and III; the children's sections are filled. Children's nature and science classes No. 425 and No. 426 are not yet filled.

Registration for these openings may be made at LARPD offices.

Guage for CC water usage

Leshner News Bureau

CONCORD — In this time of drought, some Contra Costa Water District customers will be given a gauge to determine if they are using more than the average amount of water used by families.

Bills to customers in the district Treated Water Division, which includes Concord, Clayton and parts of Walnut Creek and Pleasanton, will show the average number of gallons of water used monthly.

John Gregg, district manager of operations, said the average family of three uses between 180 and 240 gallons of water a day during the winter months.

The average winter water usage for one person runs between 60 and 80 gallons daily, Gregg added.

During the summer, the water consumption doubles or triples, Gregg continued.

"This new method will provide our customers with a basis for managing their water use and will assist them in their efforts to conserve water."

CITY OF PLEASANTON
ALAMEDA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA
ORDINANCE NO. 805
AN ORDINANCE AMENDING
SUBSECTION 1 OF SECTION 2.9.16
(SCHEDULE OF OFF-STREET PARKING FACILITIES), CHAPTER 2, TITLE II (ZONING AND DEVELOPMENT) OF THE ORDINANCE CODE OF THE CITY OF
PLEASANTON RELATING TO PARKING REQUIREMENTS FOR DWELLING AND LODGINGS.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON ORDAINS AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Subsection 1 of Section 2.9.16, Article 16, Chapter 2, Title II of the Pleasanton Ordinance Code is amended in its entirety to read as follows:

Sec. 2.9.16 Schedule of Off-Street Parking Space Requirements:

1. Dwellings and Lodgings

a. Single family dwelling units shall have at least two parking spaces.

b. Condominiums, community apartments and separately owned townhouses shall have at least two parking spaces per unit.

c. Apartment house parking requirements shall be computed as follows:

(1) For apartments with two bedrooms or less, a minimum of two spaces shall be required for the first four units and one and one-half spaces for each additional unit.

(2) For apartments with three or more bedrooms (or two bedrooms and a den convertible to a third bedroom), a minimum of two spaces per unit shall be required. Parking requirements for units having less than three bedrooms shall be computed separately from the requirements for units having three bedrooms or more and then added together.

(3) Visitor parking, in a ratio of one parking space for each seven units, shall be provided. All visitor parking spaces shall be clearly marked for this use. Visitor parking may be open or covered and does not count as part of the covered parking requirement described in subparagraph d below.

d. At least one space per dwelling unit of the off-street parking, required in sub-paragraphs a, b and c above, shall be located in a garage or carport.

e. Motels, hotels, lodging houses and private clubs providing guest sleeping accommodations shall have at least one space for each guest sleeping room or for each two beds, whichever is greater, plus at least one space for each two employees.

f. Trailer parks shall have a minimum of one space for each unit, plus at least one additional space for each three units, none of which shall occupy area designated for access drives.

Section 2. This Ordinance shall be effective thirty (30) days after it has been duly adopted.

Section 3. Publication. This ordinance shall be published once within fifteen days after its adoption in "THE TIMES," a newspaper of general circulation, published in the City of Pleasanton.

'No case against worm ranchers'

PLEASANTON — An attorney for a local worm farm which is being sued by the District Attorney and the state Attorney General said that the plaintiffs don't have a leg to stand on.

All of the allegations in the civil suit filed against Circle O Worm Farm of Pleasanton and Reno, Nev., are false, said attorney Jack Berman of San Francisco.

Owners of the Circle O are charged with using false, misleading advertising to attract investors in worm farm production, says the complaint filed by the two public legal offices.

Berman begrudged the legal officers one point, but it was a technicality. The Circle O promoters did say the attorney general's office reviewed worm farms and gave them a clean bill of health. Well, it was the District Attorney's office which did that, said Berman. And who doesn't get the two offices mixed up, he implied.

The joint complaint also claims that Circle O owners lied when they said worms are eaten in Formosa and used for garbage disposal in Japan. Berman said his clients would prove the assertion about Formosa, and he added in Mexico City he ate worms from a cactus plant. Prepared correctly, they are quite a delicacy, though he found them a little flat.

Worms indeed are used for garbage disposal in Japan, though they are shipped there by the pound, not by the ton, as previously asserted, he said. There is also an experiment in an Arizona town using worms for garbage sludge disposal, he said.

The economic claims were important in the complaint, too. Circle O has bought back all of the worms it sold, and then turned around and sold them to jobbers, said Berman.

It's possible to get 64 bins of worms from one bin in just one year if the worm farmer takes proper care of them, said Berman. That could bring a gross income of $1,200 per month, said Berman. Circle O was paying up to $3.50 per pound as of Dec. 31 in buying them back from worm farmers, said Berman.

Circle O Worm Ranch is located on Stanley Boulevard and owned by Bill and Lynn Ross.
